Madison Bank Is Held Up by Pair of Young Bandits

(By Associated Press.)
Madison—Three armed bandits held up the Madison State bank here at 2:45 Friday morning and after attempting to lock the employees in the vault, escaped with $1,200 in cash.

Victor E. Albright, president of the bank, was forced to open the vault, while the others gathered up available cash, amounting to $1,200.

After attempting to lock the door of the vault, the three men escaped. They were unable to secure the door, and as soon as they left, police were notified.

First indication of the intent of the robbers, described as "young and inexperienced," was given when Mr. Albright, looking up from his work into a muzzle of a revolver, he was ordered to put his hands up.

At the same time, the other two bandits, one of whom was armed with a revolver, ordered the employees to get into the vault. None of the bandits knew how to fasten the door, and left without securing it.

Two of the men were said by Mr. Albright to have visited the bank last week to have a $200 cashed. One of these is described as an Italian, both young and heavily built.

Their escape was aided by the fact that the employees, who do not know whether or not they made their getaway in an automobile.

Chief Charles Newman received word at 10:30 of the $1,200 bank robbery at Madison, Friday morning, and all patrolmen were notified to be on the lookout for the bandits. Motorcycles and patrolmen from Evansville throughout the morning.

"They probably got just the counter-cash," said John W. Dwyer, bank of Southern Wisconsin, in Evansville. "Most of the bandits now keep only enough money on the counter to do business with; the rest is kept in the safe, with the combination turned off. It is a safety measure, instituted as a result of frequent bank hold-ups in the past year."

MILTON WOMAN TELLS OF EXPERIENCES IN FAMINE REGION

FROM MIRIAM WEST
With Friends Society for Russian Relief in famine area of Russia. (Volga section.)

Sorochinskaya, Russia, Dec. 29, 1921.—It probably will be best if I try to give a brief account of the past week or ten days. After waiting last week a few days longer in Buzuluk, first for the lost cars to come up and then when they had come up it was discovered that some seals were broken for the safe transport of the food, so these cars were examined to see if there had been any loss. We were then able to load the cars and move on more or less. After a day of this we decided to have those cars unloaded into the Buzuluk warehouse and go on without them. We were all ready to start when it was reported that something was wrong with the wheel on one car and that it could not be mended until the next day. That was too much for our patience and we decided to leave one of our men with the car and go on. We were given the engine from the post-train which had just come in and made our trip a week ago yesterday a few hours.

We had been living at the station eight days waiting to take a three hours trip. We arrived here about ten o'clock at night so again we spent the night in the station yards. The train whose engine we took did not get here for several days. It was snow-bound.

Have Ancient House
All day Wednesday Kemworth had been sick and Thursday morning his temperature was sufficient high to warrant our looking up a doctor. We started away from the car about nine o'clock and arrived at the hospital. The executive committee of the Soviet, before they were open. We found that there were two men appointed to look after our interests. The chairman of the Board of Education and the other was his assistant, both young men. The second, Mr. Thomas, is a German so we got along nicely without an interpreter. We first looked at the house selected for us. I wonder what mother would think of it. It had been cleaned up but there is old and much bedraggled wall paper on the walls, the windows are most of them pasted shut for the winter. (Russian fashion, we sleep with our windows closed at night although the temperature has been slightly below freezing.)

Our furniture is scarce and very old, what there is of it. It is not interesting in its age. We have four rooms upstairs. We use three for sleeping-rooms and the fourth for dining and living room, though we live mostly in the office. Below the kitchen, there is a room with only a big Russian stove when we arrived. The cooking had to be done with kettles set into the fire.

Struggling Attorney of Chicago, Schooled by Hard Knocks, Heir to Earldom

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago—Cyril Woodcock, Chibley, attorney, said made Chicago lawyer, whose struggle for a living has been only moderately successful, Friday was informed that he was sole heir to an English earldom.

One news had little effect on him for he, calmly informed newspaper reporters that he already possessed the greatest title in the world—that of an English earldom—and desired no other.

Mr. Armstrong received a communication which had been sent to friends of his by the consular department in Washington in response to inquiries from relatives in India, asking that he be located. He produced many letters and documents to prove that he was the man sought, but said that he was not the man sought.

The letter asking that Mr. Armstrong be located was written by Lord Phonsen, British vice consul in charge at Nairobi, East Africa, to the state department at Washington. It stated that the Armstrongs recently had called on him to an earldom, that Cyril was the immediate heir, and that he was seeking Cyril.

The letter was forwarded by Washington to Mayor P. J. O'Brien of Quincy, who located Armstrong in Chicago.

"I know nothing of the title," said Armstrong. "But I do know that I am the Armstrong sought. If the reports of a title, prove correct, well, I am a lord, but I am not a lord. I came to this country, became an American citizen, fought my way up to a position of respect in this country, and I have no desire to change."

GROCERIES CLEAN HOUSE FOR SPRING

Canned Goods Offered at Bargains to Make Way for Fresh Stuff.

Housewives looking for special bargains in eatables will enjoy a visit to local grocery stores this Saturday for winter spring coming out and new fruits and vegetables promised within the next few weeks, many bargains are offered in canned goods.

A housewife is a business woman necessarily and good ones always appreciate bargains.

Some grocers this week are making special prices on their canned goods. In order to clear their shelves for the new spring goods. Their prices have been reduced considerably, and still further saving can be made by ordering in quantity.

Among the canned fruits and vegetables on which special prices have been marked are pineapples, sliced and grated, peaches, pears, raspberries, loganberries, strawberries, tomatoes, peas, corn, beans—baked, wax, lima and kidney, sauer kraut and spinach.

Sugar is Advancing. Many commodities in the grocery stores are going up in wholesale price, and the retail price will soon be affected. It is predicted. Dried fruits, such as apricots and prunes, have jumped considerably, but the retail prices remain the same.

Sugar prices are advancing, as was predicted some weeks ago, and the future of that article is uncertain. Some dealers declare the price must advance a great deal, more or producers will not make any next year.

Strawberries remain in the market, but sell slowly because of their high price. It has dropped 5 cents, now standing at 70 cents per quart. They are large and red, but do not contain the real strawberry flavor. Grapefruit continues to get better as the end of the season draws near. Extra large and ripe ones are selling for a shilling.

Other articles in the fruit market are the same in price as last week. The cheapest apples now obtainable are 10 cents per pound, while pineapples, almost gone, are selling for 25 and 40 cents each.

The new spring vegetables now in market are selling well, being welcomed for a change. New cabbage sells at 1 and 5 cents a pound, head lettuce at 15 and 20 cents per head, leaf lettuce at 35 cents per pound; new carrots, 10 cents a bunch; new onions, the same; cucumbers, 30 cents each; tomatoes, 30 cents per pound; chives, 15 cents per plant; green peppers, large, 8 and 10 cents each; cauliflower, 20 cents and higher; spinach, 25 and 30 cents a pound; spinach, 15 cents a pound; chives, 25 and 40 cents a pound; potatoes, 35 and 40 cents per peck.

Eggs have dropped another cent, now costing from 14 to 20 and 25 cents a dozen for the strictly fresh. Butter has gone down from 39 to 37 cents a pound, while other brands are still well over 40 cents.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

George Morton goes to work at the home of Planter, a rich man. When his father loses all his property, a horse business, George becomes a horse raiser and as a part of the job acts as groom to Sylvia Planter when she rides. Sylvia is thrown from her horse and thinking her unconscious, George kisses her, calling out that he loves her. She drives him from the place and George throws her brother into a fair fight. He seeks an armistice, but Sylvia, who is embarrassed, gets a job with a brokerage office, makes a high social position. But Sylvia still flouts him, showing preference for a classmate who is going to be a scoundrel, Dalmypie. George goes to training camp and says farewell to Sylvia before sailing to fight overseas.

"Not past, Mr. Planter! Rank and file soldier!"

The lieutenant glanced significantly at the medical orderly. He looked sharply at George's hair and suddenly pointed.

"They nicked him in the head, too."

The orderly knelt and examined the place the lieutenant had indicated.

"Oh, no, sir. That's quite an old scar."

"Not yet. Don't think I shall. Planter's not so lucky, but he'll get home sooner."

Allen brought George his one relief from the dreary monotony of the base hospital. He had sent for him because he wanted his opinion as to the possibility of an armistice. Blodgett, however, hadn't waited for the result of the conference. The day Allen arrived a letter came from him, telling George not to worry.

"King Fordy along about the last of September whispered I'd better begin to unload. It's a killing, George."

With his mind clear of the George, could be amused by Allen. The friend of the people wore some striking clothes from London tailors and haberdashers. He carried a cunning little cane. He had managed something extremely neat in mustaches. He spoke with a perceptible West End accent. But in reply to George's smoothing humour he made this astonishing remark:

"It isn't nearly as much fun being a top-hole person as I thought it was going to be."

"You're lucky to have found it out," George said. "For your job's about over. Of course I could get you something in Wall Street."

"Double if I want it," Allen said. "I've always got my old job."

George whistled.

"You mean you'd go back to long hair, cheap clothes, and violent words?"

"Why not? I only took your offer, Allen, because I was inclined to agree with you that in the outside world's anxiety to look at what was going on over the fence people's step thinking. Russia didn't stop thinking, and after the armistice, you watch America begin to use its brain."

"You mean the dovetailed?"

George sneered.

"That's the greater part of any country," Allen said, his acquired contempt forgotten. His perfectly clean hands commencing to gesture.

But George wouldn't listen to him, got rid of him, turned to the wall with an ugly feeling that he had gone out of his way to nurture one of the makers of the hell after war.

PART V

THE NEW WORLD

George crushed his uneasy thoughts, trying to dwell instead on the idea that he was going back to the normal, but all at once he experienced a dread of the normal, perhaps, because he was no longer normal himself. Could he limp before Sylvia with his old assurance? Would people pity him, or would he irritate them because he had a disability? And snatches of his talks at the front with Wendel etched themselves sharply against his chaotic recollections of those days. Was Wendel fair? Was it, indeed, the original George Morton people had always liked? More, apart from the turn of mind, he didn't believe it, didn't dare believe it. Those people wouldn't have cared for him except for his assumption of qualities which he had chosen as from a counter display. Yet was it the real George Morton that made him in superlative moments break the traces of his acquired judgments, as he had done at New Haven, in the Argonne, to dash selfishly into the service of others? Rotten inside, indeed! Even in the hospital he set out to crush that impulsive, dangerous part of him.

But the nearer he drew to home the more he suffered from a depression that he could only define as homesickness for the old ways, the old habits, the old thoughts; and the memory of his comarader with Sylvia at the moment of their parting was like a great cloud threatening the future with destructive storm.

Lambert, wearing a contrivance the doctors had given him in place of what the country had taken away, accompanied by Betty and the Dalrys, met the transport. Betty and Mrs. Dalrymple cried, and George shook his heavy stick at them.

"See here! I'm not going to limp like this always."

Betty encircled him with his thin arms.

"You're too old to play football, anyway, George."

George found himself wanting Betty's arms, their forgetfulness, their understanding, their tenderness.

"When are you going to get married?" he forced himself to ask.

Betty looked away, her white cheeks flushing, but Lambert hurried an answer.

"As soon as you're able to get to Princeton. You're to be best man."

"Honoured."

So Lambert's crippling hadn't made any difference to Betty, but how did Sylvia take it? He wanted to ask Lambert where she was, if anything had happened to her, any other mad affair now that the war was over like the one with Blodgett, but he couldn't ask, and no one volunteered to tell him, and it wasn't until his visit to Oakmont, on his first leave

THE CORSETLESS CRAZE

If all the advertising I read is true the college man must set the fashion in men's clothing, for a great deal of prominence is always given to what the college man is going to consider proper for the coming season.

Why don't we let the college girls set the fashions? I can't imagine any more sensible class to be made leaders. But as it is they not only do not set the styles, they are not even supposed to follow them. When the high-heeled pointed shoe was at its height, such round-toed, broad-heeled shoes as were made were labeled briefly "college girls shoes" and were put somewhere on the back shelves. The college girl is supposed to live in tweed skirts, tailored waists and sweaters, and few fashion shops cater to her tastes.

I'd like to see the college girl made arbiter of style just as the various "college cuts" influence men's tailoring. When I was visiting Bryn Mawr last fall I was told that only one girl in the entire college wore high heels, and only one was even suspected of using rouge. Now there is a story from Boston University that the girl students there are discarding corsets for a freer and healthier manner of dressing. One girl who is known as the most perfectly formed girl in the university declares that none of the girls should ever wear corsets, that it is no more modest to go without them than for a man to go without his collar.

SECRETARY TO INDIA RESIGNS.

(By Associated Press.)

London—Edwin S. Montagu, the secretary for India, tendered his resignation Thursday and it was accepted.

M. M. K. C.—The exercises that were given in the Chats for indigestion and constipation will not make the abdomen larger. To the contrary they will tend to make it smaller since they strengthen all the muscular tissue including that of the digestive organs.

Bury and Jase.—To strengthen the eyes through exercise, close the lids and take all of the exercise with the eye balls while the lids are kept closed. Roll the eyeballs up as far as you can and hold them for an instant; then slowly roll them down as far as you can and hold, after which bring the vision to the center. Repeat by rolling the eyeball to right and then to the left, always holding an instant before returning to the center. The next one is to raise the eyeball and describe a circle, first to the right and then toward the left.

Rest between the exercises if they tire the muscles, which they will surely do at the start. These exercises have cured many minor troubles with the sight and will always improve any condition with the eyes. One reason for this is the fact that they exercise all the muscles, while most people have only used a certain number of muscles and the balance of them become weakened from neglect.

Congresswoman Robertson of Oklahoma was talking about woman in politics.

"Woman lacks political training," as yet," she said, "but there is no reason why, in time, she shouldn't do as well in politics as man does."

"Certainly," in reply to hecklers she will do well. I remember stopping one chilly October night to listen to a woman preaching, some new creed, to others from a soapbox.

"Say," a rough shouted at her. Say, you look cold, baby! Why don't you turn your collar up, like me?"

"Well, you see," baby," answered sweetly from her soapbox, "I've got a clean neck."

Farm Bureau Official Information

JEFFERSON COUNTY PUSHES LIVESTOCK

Developed What Market Wanted and Made It Big Business.

By LEWIS C. FRENCH.

Rock county can learn much from Jefferson county in livestock development and livestock plans.

Interesting facts about our neighboring county have been learned by trips to Jefferson farms and interviews with J. M. Coyner, county agent, who has been in the stock development program. There is better stock in Rock county than there is in Jefferson.

DARTON

Dartons—The poverty which was to be given by the Baptist Sunday school Friday night has been indefinitely postponed. Adam Turner and family have moved on a farm near Valerworth. Rev. E. W. Palmer was called to Chicago Tuesday on account of the illness of his wife's mother. Mrs. Palmer went to Chicago Saturday. Mrs. J. M. Coyner and Mrs. Snyder, both in town Wednesday. Members of the A. H. H. family, north of town, are ill. Mrs. Bert Classon, Richmond, is caring for them. The M. E. society met Thursday with Mrs. E. M. Allen. Mrs. Wallace Christensen and two daughters visited in Avalon Tuesday.

WISE WOMEN

A famous medical man of ancient times stated that the greatest knowledge obtained from the "Wise Women."

Do you realize that in those times the women, and not the men, knew about the healing properties of most plants, roots and herbs? From the earliest times, women had a knowledge of the healing power of roots and herbs.

Lidia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was originated by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, and is now known and praised by women of all ages. It is prepared from roots and herbs having medicinal action of great value in the treatment of troubles women so often have.

This Little Pig Missed the Market

Madison—Ziegler, Wisconsin, lost a pig during thrashing time. It seems it had worked its way between the straw pile and the fence while thrashing (head and back) and stayed there until the hog did and turned around, which the hog did and it was missed. The hog is not able to climb that fence, however, it is picking up on swill.

Dr. Munn, President Guernsey Association

Sixty Wisconsin—Illinois Guernsey men attended the annual meeting of that association at Madison, Wis., in late February. The meeting was held in the Hotel Wisconsin, and was the first of its kind since the war. The association has been talking for a year or two and the sentiment of the members for the Guernsey breed is now so strong that it seems probable that one will be employed as soon as the committee with that in charge decides on how funds can best be raised.

Among the resolutions adopted was one asking the National Dairy Show to be held in Madison, Wis., in 1923. The Wisconsin Guernsey Association is also planning to hold a Guernsey show in Madison, Wis., in 1923.

At the banquet in the evening the list of speakers included: Homer Rundell, Chas. L. Hill, Professor G. W. Sherman, P. E. Fox, H. H. Williams, and J. C. Ralston. H. W. Griswold acted as toastmaster.

Farmer Legislation Still Before Congress

In Washington agriculture legislation is still before the House of Representatives. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterways project is still a matter of controversy. New England representatives from New York oppose the plan seeking to deny the western corn belt state a market by water.

The Muscle Shoals situation is still before the House of Representatives. The American Farm Bureau has made a statement favoring the adoption of the plan. Grey Silver, the Washington Bureau representative, appeared before the committee.

There is the Lenroot-Anderson bill pending for agriculture credit. Congress is expected to pass a bill to help small farmers by making agricultural purposes easier to get and handle.

Freight rates on live stock were discussed for two days last week before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Representatives of live stock exchanges, co-operative shippers, national live stock association, and farm organizations agreed that railroad rates were too high and that rates had advanced out of all proportion to prices of other service and to net returns to producers was proven by numerous witnesses. The hearings will cover almost every branch of the shipping industry before they are ended by the Commission.

Advances in Markets Boost Farmers' Hopes

Along with the spring there is a little sunshine for the farmer. The advance in livestock and grain markets has boosted farmers' hopes.

It is estimated that the advance in values of livestock and grain within the last two months amounts to $1,046,000. Hogs have advanced $1.00 a hundred from the last week in December.

Cattle have advanced $1 per hundred from the last week in December. Sheep have advanced $2.25 a hundred from the last week in December.

Wheat has advanced 25 cents a bushel and corn about 10 cents a bushel.

Cuticura Talcum Always Healthful

Sample from Cuticura Talcum, Dept. 5, Madison, Wis. Everywhere.

Speaks Highly of This Home Made Cough Remedy

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Tosses the Nucleus—Relieves the Irritation and Stops the Cough.

Costs Next to Nothing—for a Big Supply.

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and I have a bottle of this remedy, it does me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time. It does not merely soothe the throat, but it gives the patient a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist the Cuticura Talcum (double strength) to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint. It is all there is to it.

But now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take goes directly on the membrane of the throat, and the tickling comes almost instantly—the inflammation subsides, the mucus is loosened, and the stubborn mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that frightened you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucous membrane and that is one reason why it is so valuable to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.

PASTOR OF CHURCH BARRED AS LEGATE OF TEACHER INSURANCE

Madison—The pastor of a church has no insurable interest in the life of a school teacher and cannot be named as the beneficiary of her state teacher's insurance. R. M. Hoyt, superintendent of schools, advised E. J. Loveland, secretary of the anti-teacher's insurance fund, in an opinion today.

"Under the established rules governing insurable interest," Mr. Hoyt said, "the mere relationship between a member of a church and its pastor does not constitute an insurable interest. As a result, the teacher cannot lawfully designate her pastor as a beneficiary."

The purpose of the teacher could be accomplished by having the church, by naming a beneficiary for her insurance and willing her property to the pastor.

GRADUATED SCALE ASKED BY RAILROAD SHOP LABORERS

Chicago—Western railroad shop laborers are asking a graduated scale of wages from the United States railroad labor board, which is holding a nationwide wage hearing to permit a graduated scale of shop wages based on wages paid for similar work in other industries in various railway centers.

The board was asked to sit a minimum rate for skilled mechanics and maximum rate for apprentices. Within this range the roads asked permission to pay wages for different classes of work equal to those paid for the same class of work in other than railroad shops. J. W. Higgins, speaking for 101 western railroad shopmen, presented a request for a reduction of the present 17-cent an hour rate to 15 cents for mechanics and 13 cents for apprentices. He asked that a maximum rate of 14 cents for helper-apprentices also be fixed.

BOYS DON'T "SKIP" SCHOOL ANY MORE TO GO A-FISHIN'

Unlike the youth of yore olden days, the modern youth doesn't play "hooky" to go fishing down in the "kicks" according to Janesville school officials. The modern boy shows most improvement in school attendance over his forefathers and when he now has the desire to fish, does it according to school rules.

The present day school pupil is not of a vicious type, says one school authority. "The reason for non-attendance in many cases is because of lack of proper supervision at home. In many instances the child who stays from the path to the school room for other things is one who has lost one parent and the other is not at home much of the time."

Truancy in Janesville is small, considering the 4,500 pupils enrolled, and among whom only 106 cases of truancy were found during the year which closed June, 1921. Judging from present indications, Janesville will set a new mark this year with probably less than 50 cases of truancy.

MANY ACCIDENTS FROM METAL PRESSES

Madison—Metal presses caused 225 serious accidents in Wisconsin during the six years from 1915 to 1921. The industrial commission said in a statement. Nearly 40 per cent of these injuries or disabilities were permanent. During these years 10 per cent caused permanent disability.

The total time lost by reason of press accidents was 1,112 working days of the entire six years, 1920 days of the worst record, with 257 compensable injuries and 112,265 working days lost.

Seventy-five per cent of all accidents on presses occurred on punch presses. Such presses are said to have the worst accident record of any machines used in Wisconsin, other than circular saws. Punch press accidents appear to be getting more numerous and more severe every year.

FLOCK OF ISLANDS READY FOR RENT BY THE STATE

Madison—If anyone in Wisconsin would like an island for a summer home, the state conservation commission announced today that it has 600 of them to let in the northern lakes of the state.

The grant of the 600 wooded islands owned to the state in 1912, have been leased by the commission to individuals for five-year periods. The cost to the lessee is nominal and conditions of the lease merely prohibit the cutting of green timber, sale of intoxicating liquor and agreement that every precaution will be taken to avoid fire.

G. L. Harrington, conservation commissioner in charge of forestry said that most of the islands are especially attractive for summer homes. Scattered among the hundreds of beautiful lakes in the northern part of the state they are reported to offer ideal camping sites.

The grant of the 600 islands was made by the federal government in 1912, together with 20,000 acres of timber land in the state. Proceeds from the leasing of these islands are turned into the state treasury to the credit of the Government Reclamation fund.

At the present time, the fund amounts to approximately $2,000 and is used to run the Forest Nursery at Trout Lake, Wis., where millions of small conifers of white pine, spruce and other varieties of trees are raised for planting on state lands.

The conservation commission recommends that individuals who see the island they want before leasing it. It is prepared to furnish all information desired by prospective lessees.

The state also has available for leasing, sites on the shores of northern Wisconsin lakes. Like conditions apply to their rental for camping purposes.

State forest rangers are instructed to protect camps and cottages of the islands in connection with their regular field work.

MANY WILL SEEK SHERIFF'S JOB

Indications Point to Field of Five or Six at September Primaries

The 1922 race for sheriff of Rock county is going to be a warm one, with plenty of candidates in the field. Although the primary election is six months hence, already there are indications of a long list of starters, with forecasts being made on who will be successful. While it is still a little early for candidates to announce themselves, predictions are there will be at least five, and possibly six or seven, out for the nomination.

Three Janesville men are being mentioned for the office—Charles Handy, Roy Worthington and Frank Smith. Handy is desk sergeant of the local police department and says Sheriff Cash Whipple a close run in the 1920 primaries while Worthington and Smith are deputy sheriffs.

In Beloit they are talking of Fred Beley, Dan Torless and Del Chamberlain as prospective candidates. Beley, present under-sheriff, has served one term as sheriff and two as under-sheriff, and is being boosted on the grounds of his experience in the work. Chamberlain served a term as sheriff several years ago, but has not tried for the office since. Torless, Beloit's successful Italian detective, is known to be feeling out sentiment in regard to running in 1924, and may possibly try this year.

"I don't want to oppose any of my good friends and that is why I may not try it this year," said Torless, Thursday night. Edgerton, who was in the race two years ago, is also being talked of as a candidate from the northern part of the county. The name of Charles Fred Gilman, Evansville, has also been mentioned.

In order to take first the Wooleens must win all six remaining games while the Gazette loses four. A tie will result if the Gazette loses three while the Wooleens take all six.

A light race is on between the Postoffice and Cadillac, for third, these teams now running tie with the Janesville Electric only three games behind, and the Samson Tractors one back of the Electric.

RUSSIAN RELIEF RALLY IS MONDAY

McBride, Prominent War Correspondent, to Speak at Baptist Church.

Opening the campaign which a Janesville committee headed by J. J. Janesville, will stage next week for funds for Russian relief, will be the mass meeting at 7:45 Monday night at the Baptist church, when Isaac McBride, war correspondent, is said to be an authority on Soviet Russia. He will talk on conditions as he saw them. Rev. R. G. Pierson will preside.

McBride, is said to be the first American newspaperman to interview Trotsky and Lenin, after the establishment of the Allied blockade. Formerly secretary to Senator Harry Lane, of Oregon, he entered Russia in 1919 during the most critical period of the Soviet republic. He traveled 2,000 miles, visited Petrograd, Moscow, Samara and Saratov, and for three weeks lived with the Red army. He is the author of a book, "Barbarians of the East." The funds raised, according to Mr. Cunningham, will be converted largely into merchandise made in Wisconsin. Eighty per cent of it will be spent in this way and 20 percent will be used for the purchase of other needed supplies. All of the relief funds secured by the Janesville committee in Russia through the American Friends (Quaker) Service committee. According to information received by Allen E. West, vice chairman, whose relief work there are approximately 12,000,000 people who need aid besides others for whom provision has already been made.

Students Are Told How to Use Public Library

BY ANNA CARLSON
Beloit H. S. Graduate.

That the Janesville public library is available for the use of the people of the rural districts of Rock county as well as residents of this city was emphasized by Miss Fannie Cox, city librarian, in her talk to training school students Thursday morning. Country teachers may take out as many books as ten books at a time on one card. These books may be kept for two weeks and then renewed for two weeks longer. Miss Cox gave the students a good general idea of the way in which the library is arranged, telling where to find the different classes of books. The librarian told especially how to use the card index and other indexes.

"The Reader's Guide to Current Literature" was stated to be the most useful book in the library. This comes each month in pamphlet form. Every six months these are bound together, and then the year's indexes are put together for the twelve months. Two new atlases in the library have helpful indexes. In the children's room is found a large number of books and other material useful to the rural teacher.

Every library said Miss Cox, should have a copy of the World's Almanac, a daily paper, and at least two good magazines. These papers should be used daily, and the boys and girls habituated in the daily practice of keeping track of world events.

Miss Cox stated she will be glad to answer questions of country teachers at any time and to give them information helpful in their work. Arrangements have been made by which the training school students will receive direct instruction at the library last next week Wednesday and Friday at ten a. m. each day the students going down in groups of 20 each.

CRANDALL WORKING WITH GREEN TALENT FOR MILTON NINE

Milton.—About 30 candidates for the Milton college baseball team are working out in the gym this week under Coach G. E. Crandall. Realizing he must depend entirely on green talent for his pitching staff, Crandall is paying special attention to prospective pitchers, who are being put through exercises with chest weights to get their arms in shape.

With last year's lineup shattered by the loss of men who graduated or left school, prospects for a winning team this spring are considered only fair. No leader has been chosen to succeed Capt.-elect Earl Korth, who left Milton to take up a law course at the University of Wisconsin. Members of the 1921 varsity squad eligible this year are Kakuske, G. Seyre, Hutchins, Baker, Arrington, Oakley and Johnson.

Only three of these men, Kakuske,

Oakley and Hutchins, played regularly last season.
